NORVIEW HIGH SCHOOL

NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

Curtain!

The lights go off, the curtains part, the screen reflects the first reel as we see twenty five candles on the birthday cake of our Alma Mater.

The motion picture industry just celebrated it's Silver Anniversary, too.

Our theme, the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of our school, we want to unfold before you as the movies do. Each section is aranged like a separate reel, our school life is the plot, our administration is the directors, and we are the producers.

You have the ticket, you won't have to stand in line and you'll always be able to find a Norviewite to see it with you.

This is the "1949 PILOT, Twenty-fifth Anniversary Edition."

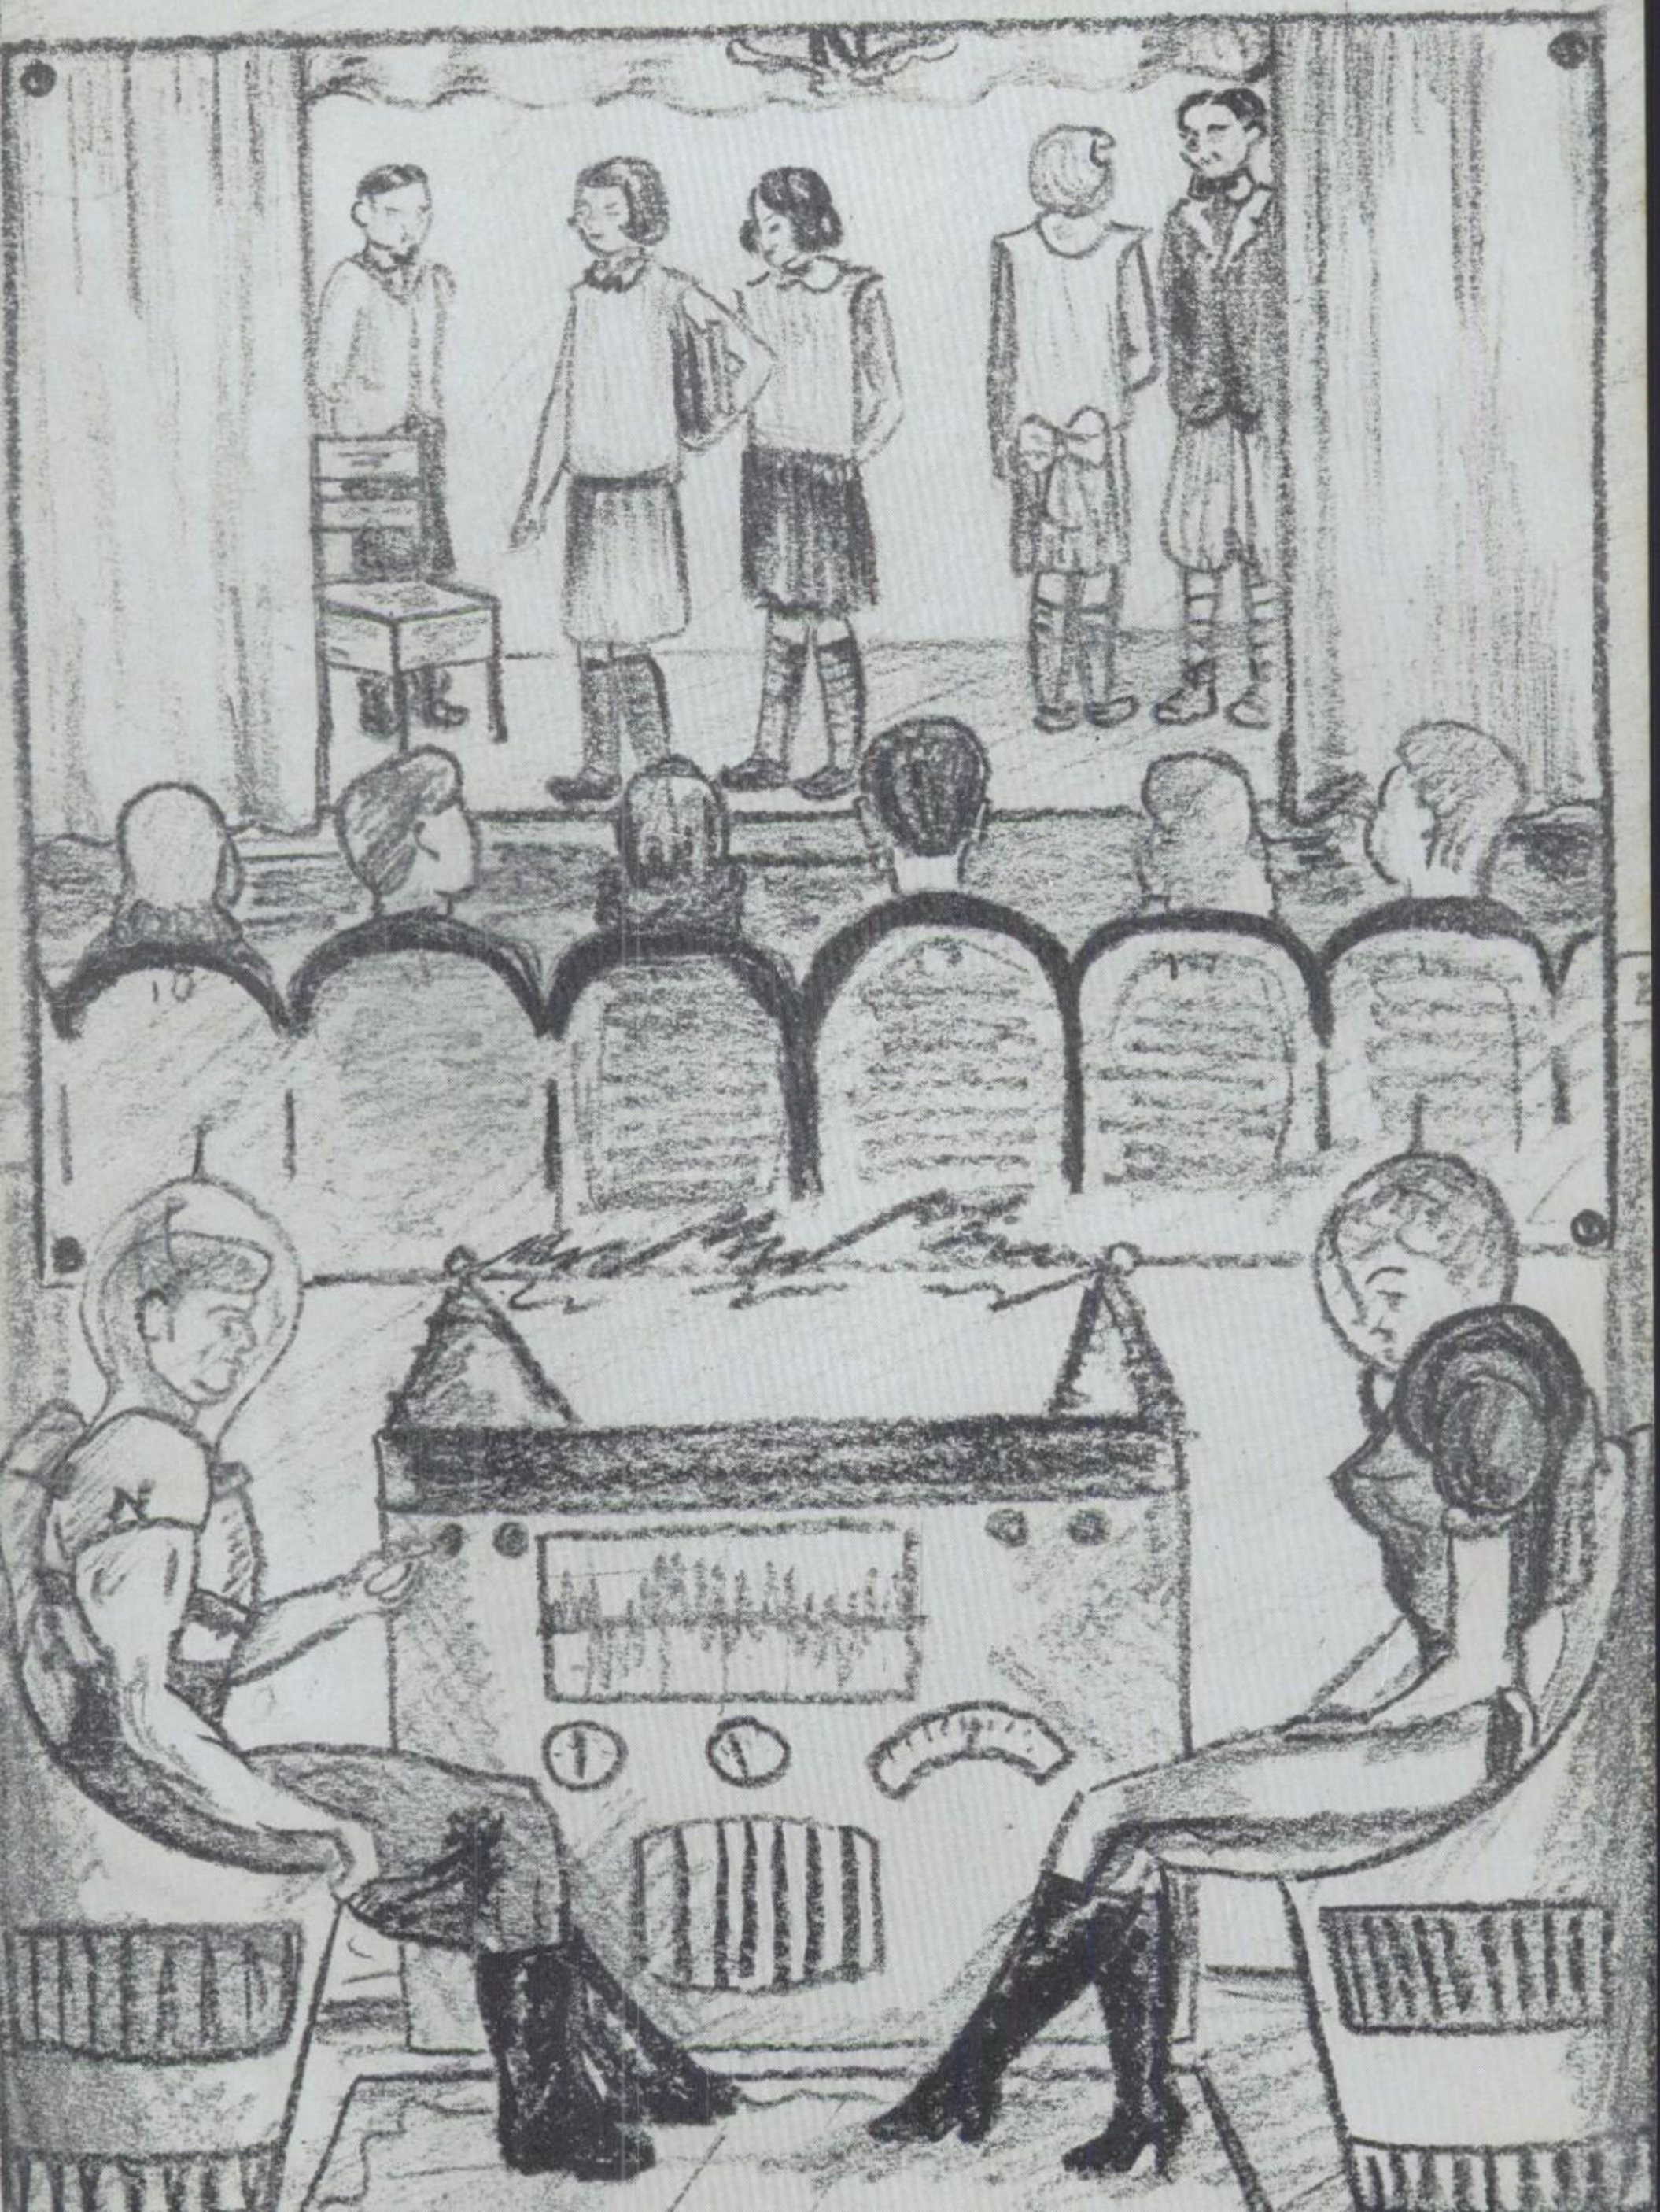
To Our Audience We Dedicate

To the memory of those students in the years that are past who walked through our halls, sat in the named-scarred desks, and left to us a hermitage greater than we know.....

To those who will follow us and take into their hands and hearts this evidence of our faith in knowledge.....

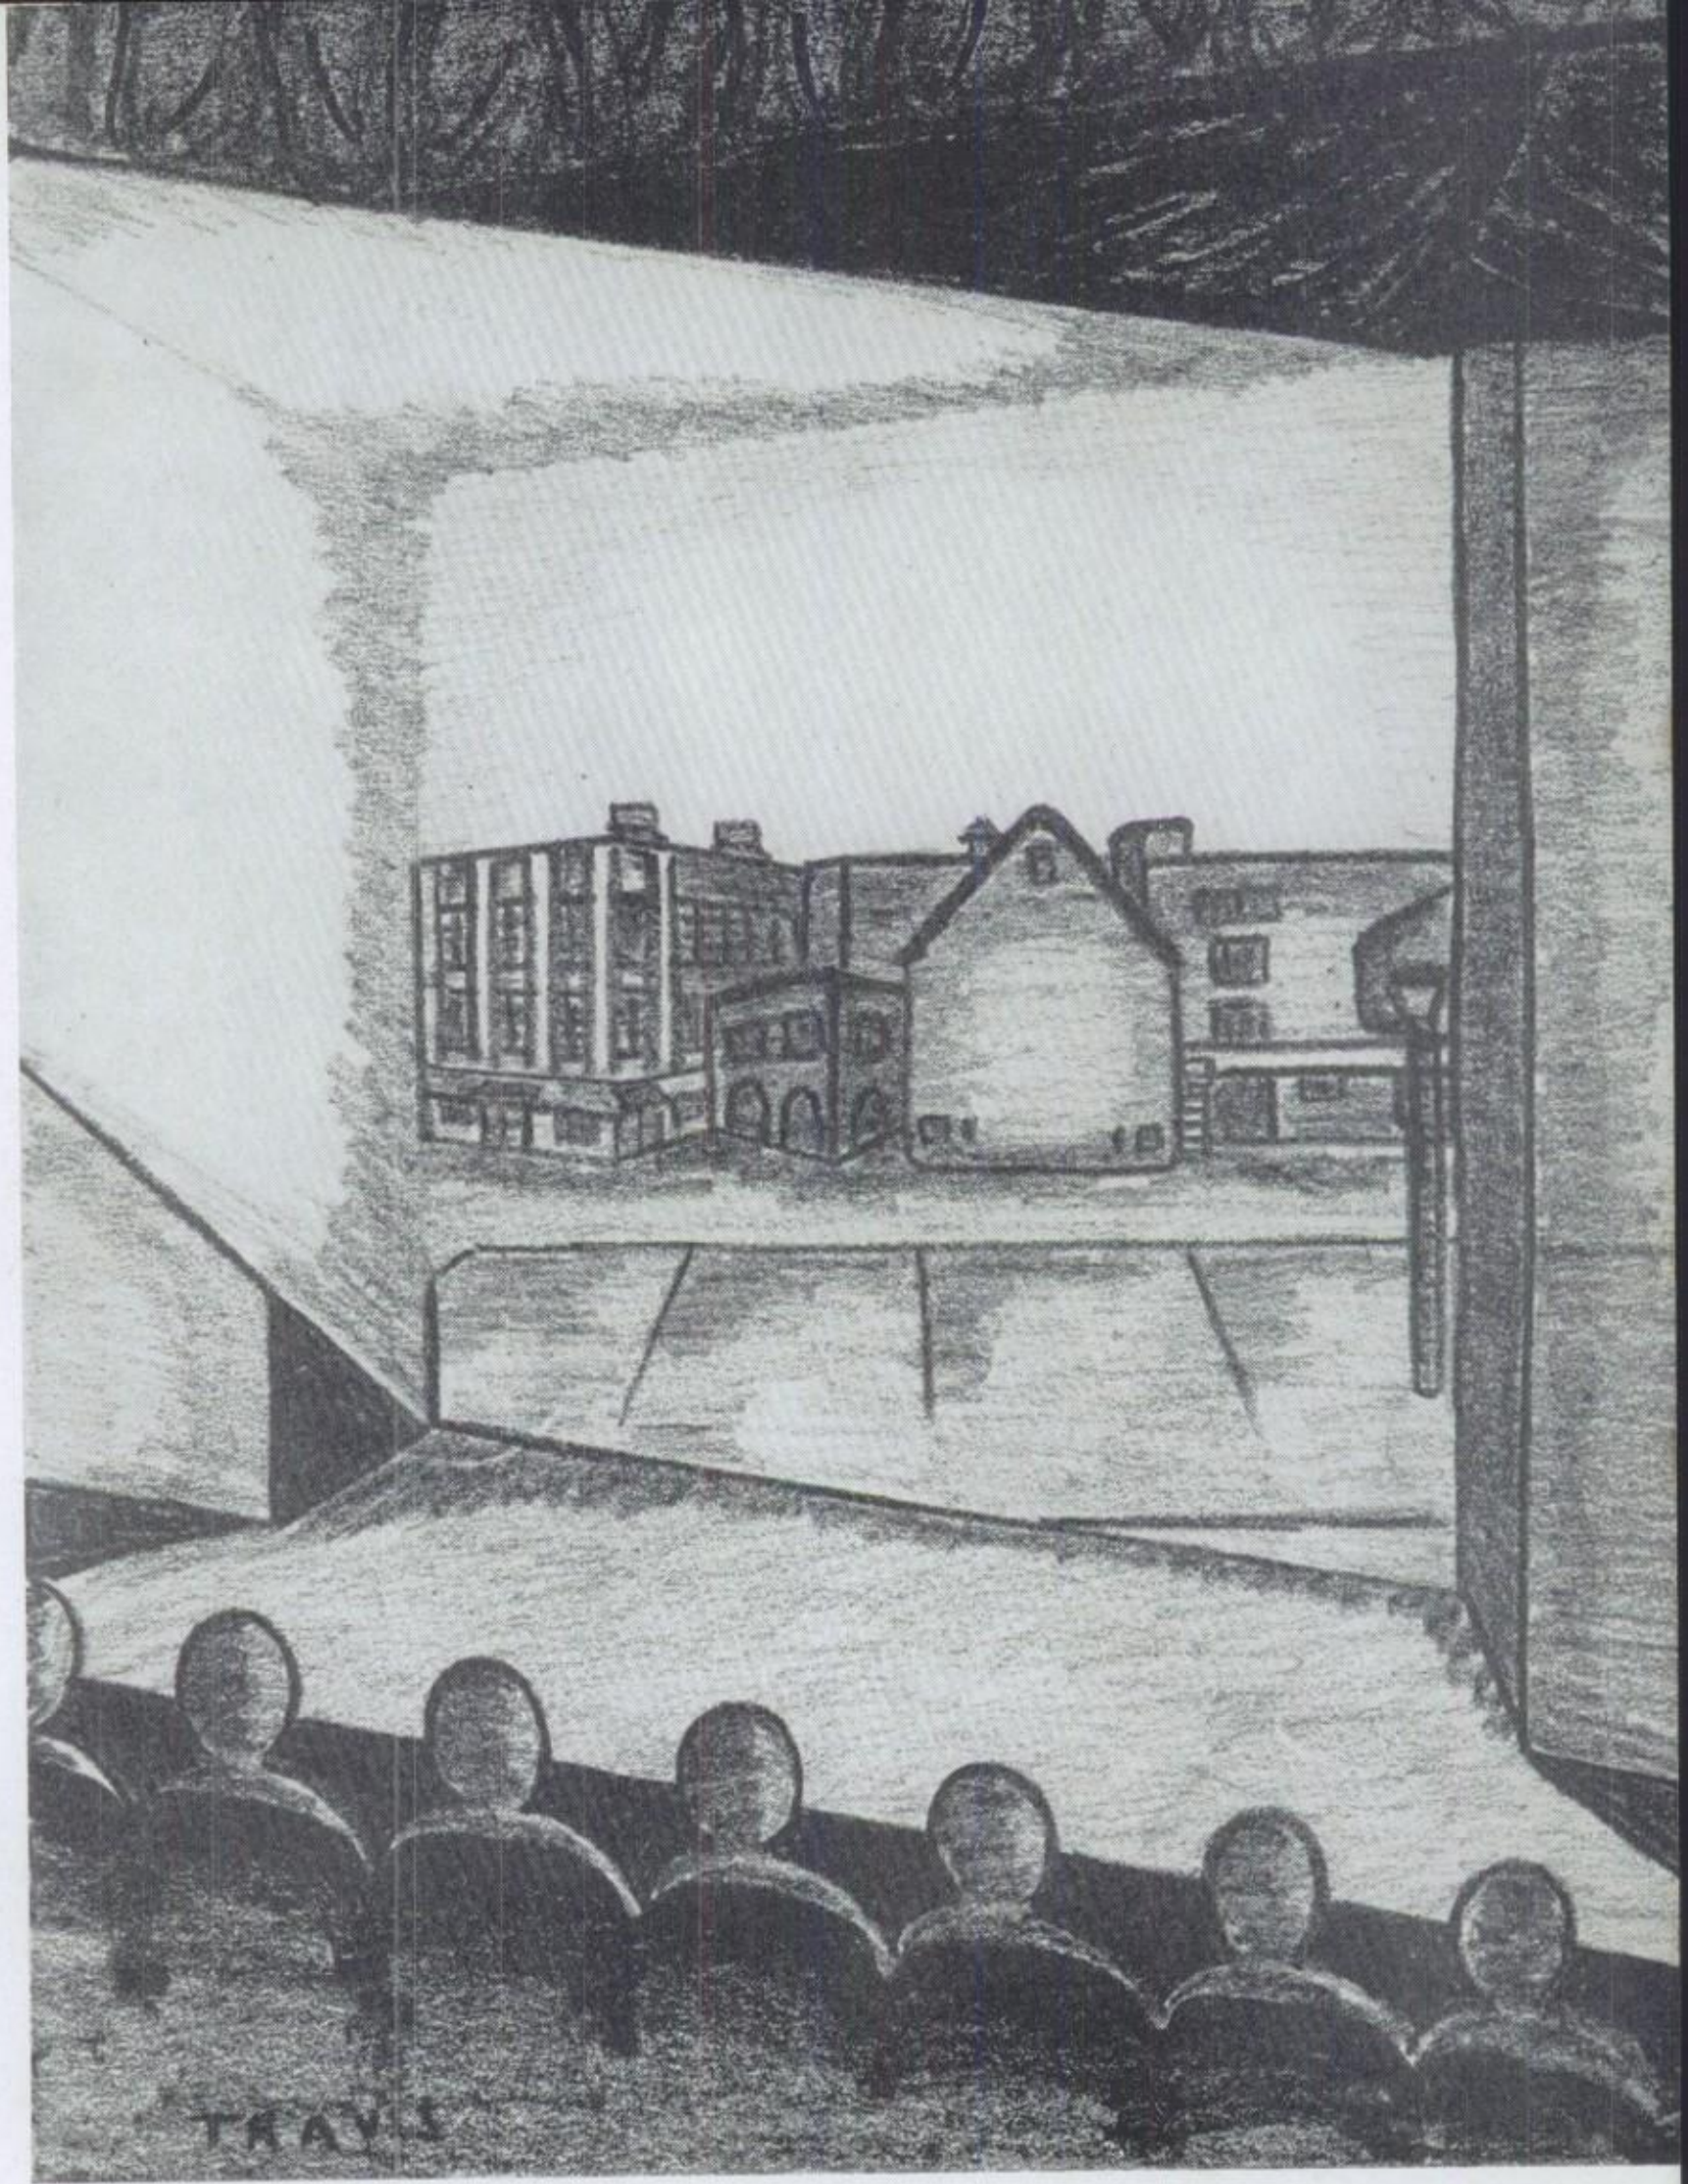
And above all to every student in every classroom, this our anniversary year.....

The Nineteen Hundred and Forty-Nine Pilot is proudly dedicated.



Musical background: ". . . . We're ever loyal . . ."

The doors fly open as the stream of students come out after school. On the shady side of the school a group sits, talking and laughing. Three boys play "catch" in front of the gym. We hear drums and saxophones from the vocational building as some band members practice a march. These are some scenes around school that will be remembered. More settings for more scenes can be seen as we travel around the campus with the cameramen. Some girls discuss sewing problems on the steps of one of the two Home Economics cottages as club members walk toward Hut 4 for a meeting. Broad Creek Junior Hi-schoolers wait for a school bus and one turns to wave at a friend crossing the lawn.



The School

Our school celebrates its 25th birthday

The old farm house that served as the first Norview school building

This is the pageant of a community and of a school. Amid the plowed field, under the sky where Indians roamed not too long ago, on the road where Civil War soldiers marched, and the families of World War "doughboys" and "G. I. Joes" traveled a settlement was begun. A large two-story farmhouse was raised This was later the first Norview School. The location was destined to be a local point of interest, mainly because it was midway between Norfolk and Ocean View, from which two places Norview was named. It was also near one of the world's greatest seaports and from such things it grew.

The first school building was soon needed. What we now call the main building was the second school and was meant to accommodate 300 students. The elementary children from the entire country moved into the old farmhouse, which had been on the school lot, but which was moved so that the foundation of our main building could be laid.

"Honesty, integrity, scholarship, leadership—these characteristics are the basic fundamentals in which Norview's ideals are rooted." This is our code in part, and with these thoughts the first graduating class, two girls transferred from Maury, began the last class of high school in 1924.

Miss Mabel Kiracofe, now Principal of Coleman Place School, became our first principal. Mr. H. C. Barnes was appointed principal in 1924, and served twenty-one years until he became Director of Instruction in Norfolk County Schools. He was succeeded by Mr. E. W. Chittum.

From the beginning, students have loved Norview, and every year it has improved. It was the students who made the traditions which we still carry out.

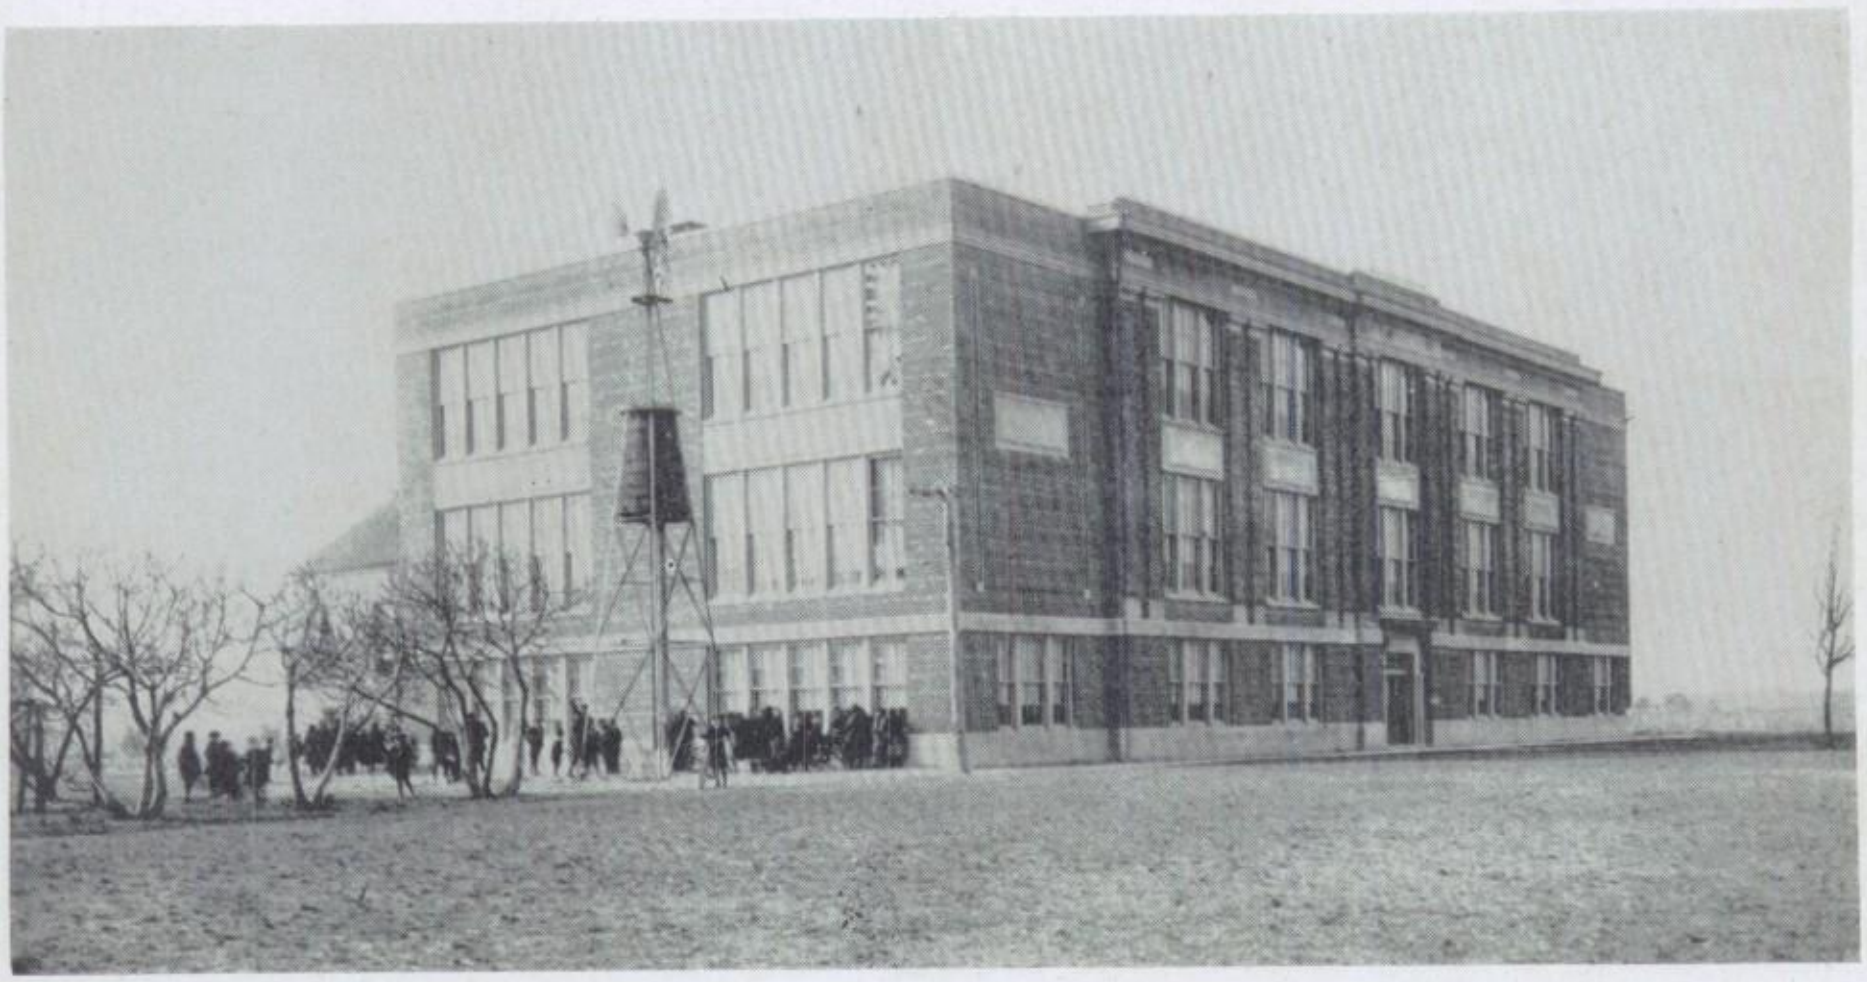
Remembering its many successful years

Early faculty members of Norview. Center is Miss Mabel Kiracofe who later became principal of Coleman Place School.

The first class gift was two pictures. For several years the senior class has presented a play in order to raise money for a class gift and it has become a tradition just as the Variety Show, Junior-Senior Prom, Commencement programs, and magazine campaigns have become tradition. Now we have a stadium, improved auditorium, a beautiful campus, enlarged library, and new accessories in the school because of student participation in magazine sales, stage productions, contributions and campaigns. Always there were faculty members and the administration to help and guide Norviewites.

Good Sportsmanship became a byword as the Pilots began earning championships in 1926 and 1927. As the school grew, the Pilot's fame grew and good school spirit was developed. The enrollment grew and in 1939 the annex, including the cafeteria and fourteen classrooms was added. The annex became crowded, making the teachers shift of elementary grades still necessary.

The main building completed in time for the 1924 school session.



Civilization began, Education began

The Vocational Building, most recent edition to our school plant, houses all Commercial and Industrial Art courses.

In 1943 the elementary building was added in an effort to accommodate the increasing enrollment caused by service people and war workers moving here with their families. More and more students became Norviewites, and a vocational and commerical building was begun in 1947 for occupation the next year. Our school also includes two Home Economics cottages and four huts. Now our sprawling school yard looks like the campus of a small college.

The gymnasium is the central gathering place afternoons after school hours and at seven for the basketball games.

The transfer of Broad Creek High students here for the '47-'48 session and the beginning of the 12-year school system increased the enrollment to over two thousand.

Growing as the school grows, the community is proud of it's many old businesses and it's own post office. It looks into the future to see itself as a small city with a big ulta-modern high school. Some Norview students live in the community, but Norview claims students from over thirty communities. Most students remember the community of Norview for it's bowling alley, movie, corner drugstores, the "shoppe" across the way, it's churches, old homes and good ol' Sewell's Point Road, down from which the yellow school buses bring them every morning to school.

The Annex built during the war years to take care of the overflow is now an important arm of the High School Building.

The corner drugstore, as in all communities, is a favorite hangout of Norview students.

If a true Norviewite was asked to tell a stranger about his school he would surely tell them about the big traditional events of the year; about how good their teams were, about their publications, the friendly informal atmosphere in classes, in the offices and in the halls, about the wonderful teachers who help him develop his thinking.

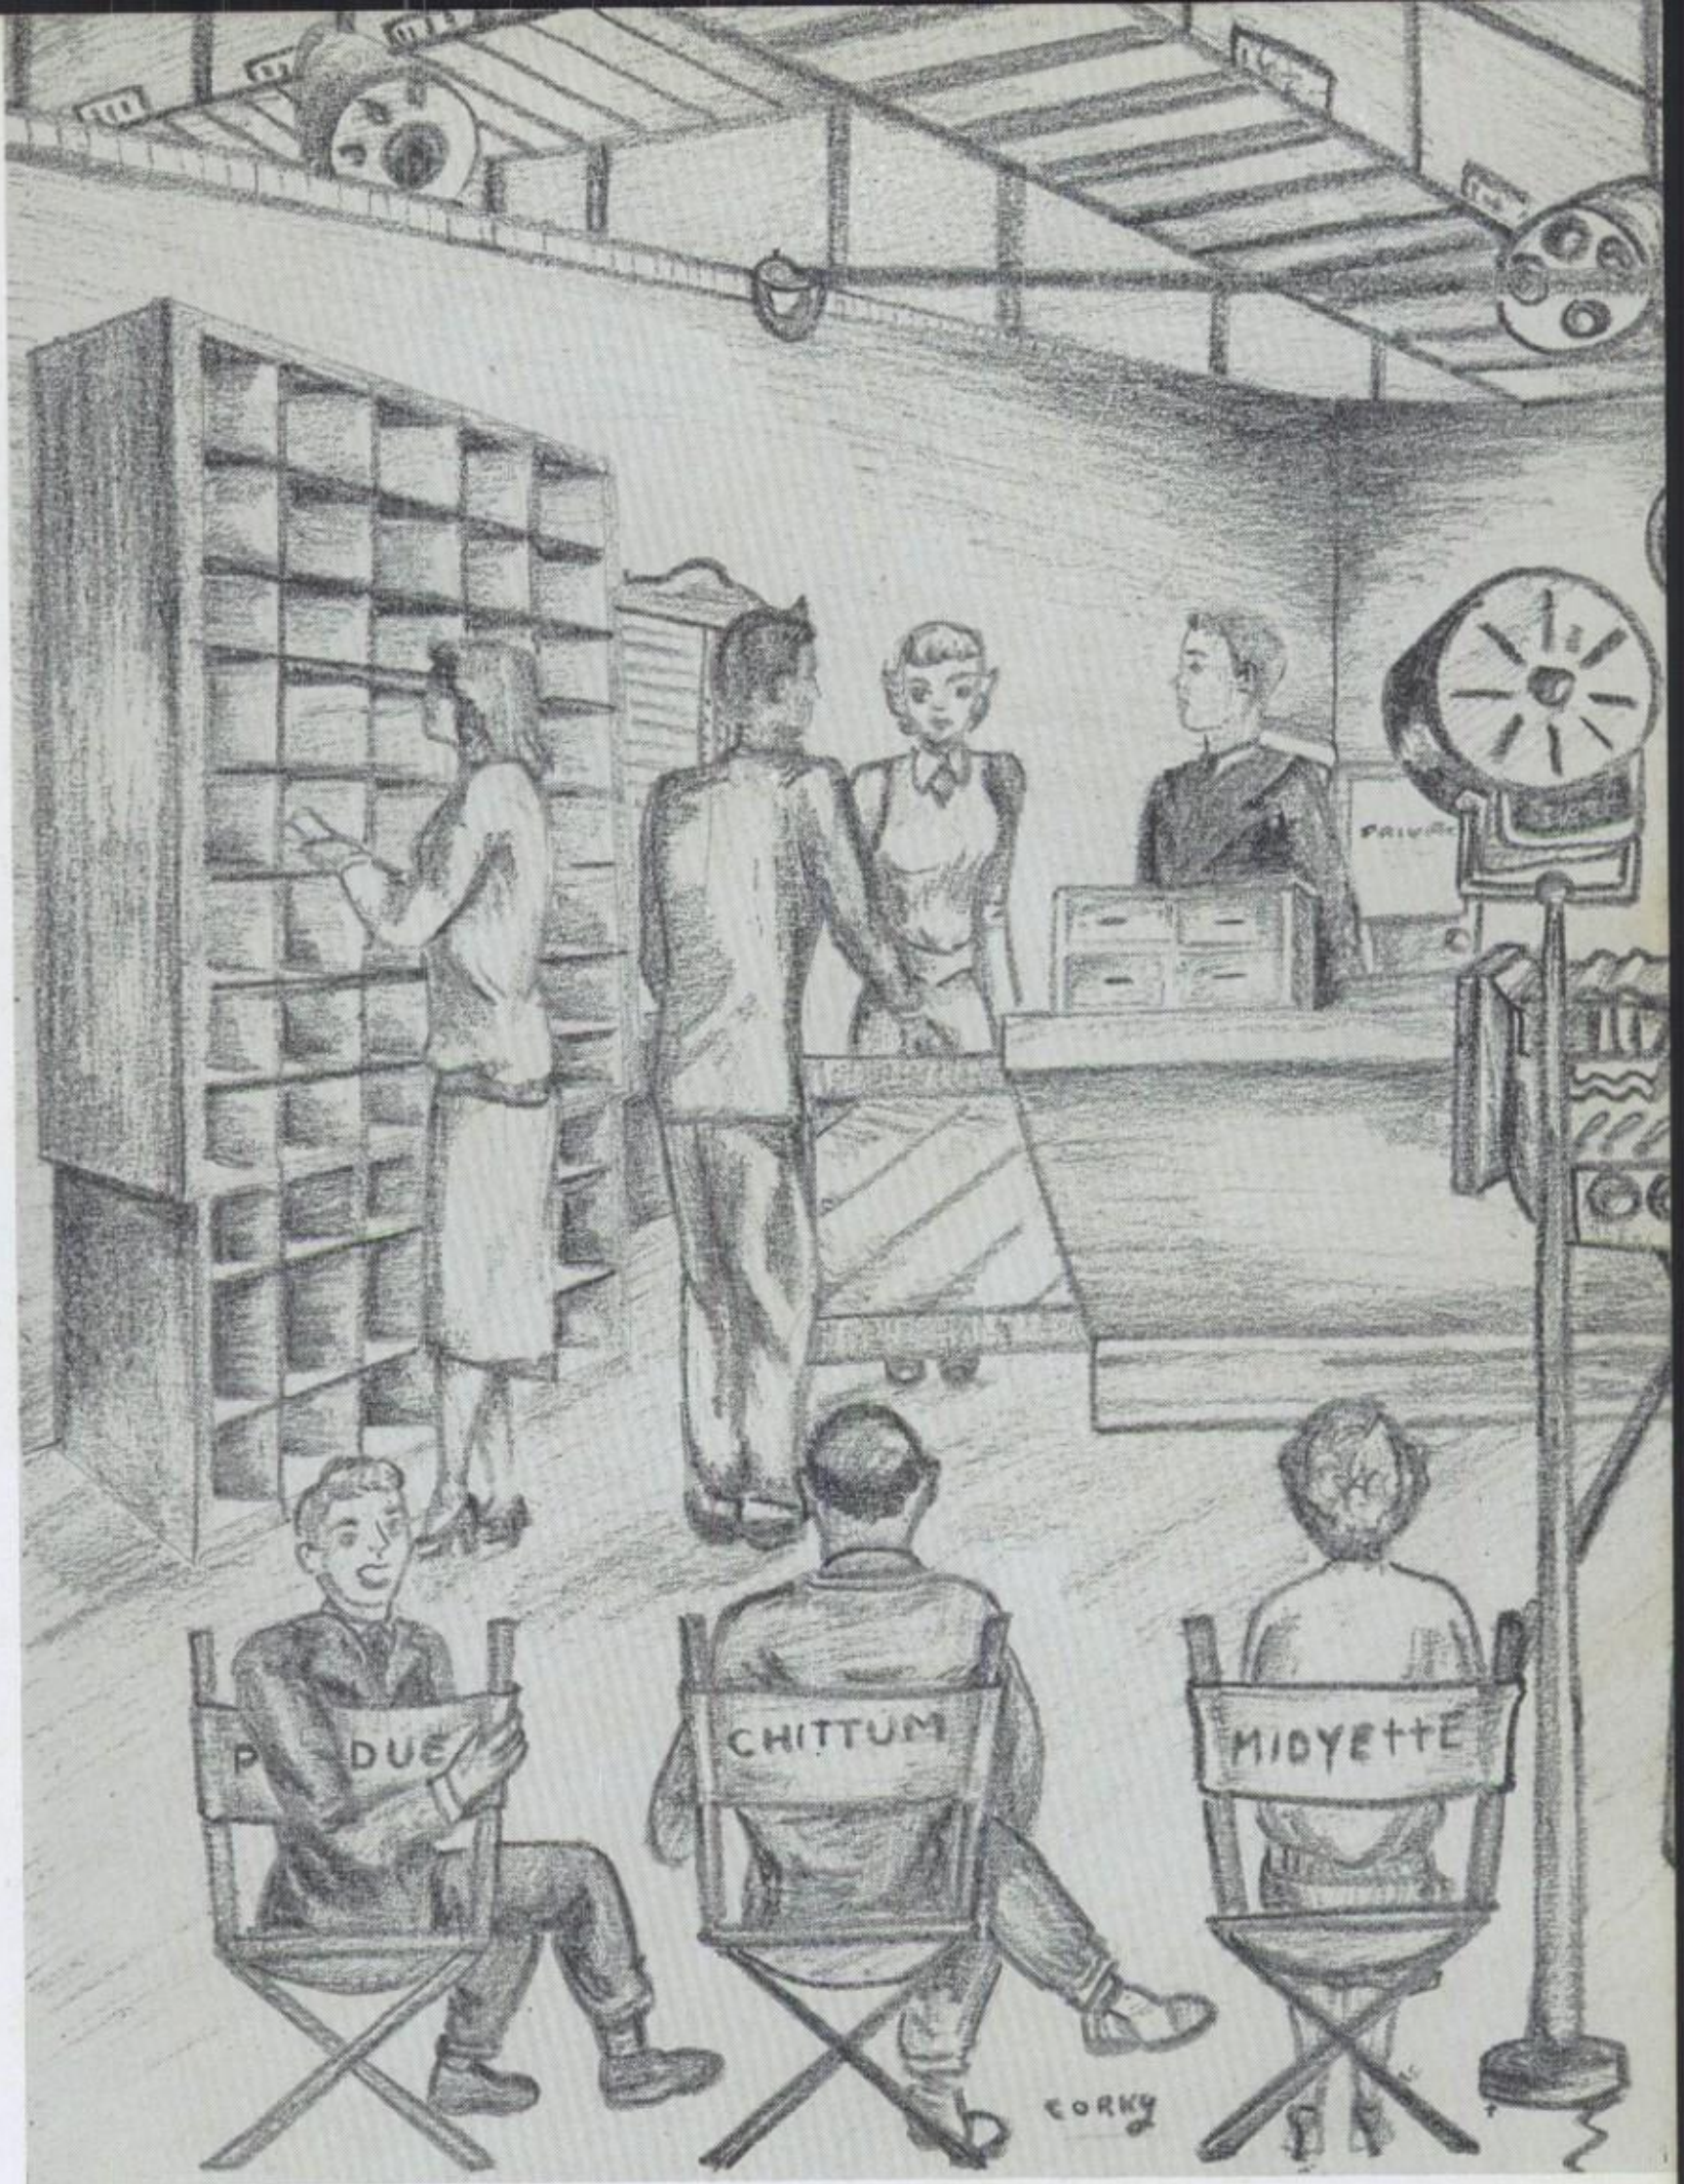
Bowling is tops on the Norviewites lists of things to do.

The neighborhood movie theater provides many hours of good entertainment.

These are the Boards of Directors

Administration

The doors open and we see a teacher pointing at a map with his ruler. He smiles, and asks, "What can I do for you?" This typifies the helpful attitude of Norview teachers. In the auditorium we see a teacher at the piano, playing the Norview song as the students come in. Backstage there's a sponsor, giving last minute instructions for the assembly program. A history teacher smiles and proudly shakes hands with some parents at a PTA meeting. This will give you a mental picture of how well these actors fill their parts as the administration.



Administration

The script calls for interesting classes

EDWIN W. CHITTUM, Principal

The friendly atmosphere between the student body and the administration was due in a large way to the interest and spirit of comradeship displayed by our principal. He commanded our respect and admiration while he became our advisor and friend.

We faced the issues squarely with Mr. Perdue as we stopped by for admittance slips or to thresh out a problem and stayed to talk it out in a man to man fashion.

Varied activities beside literature and grammar are found in the Norview English Department. Dramatics, speech, and journalism have become as important to the students as the verb, "to be" and Shakespeare's "MacBeth."

And they often included project activities

Special music was provided all year for the school by the vocal classes. Mrs. McDermott runs over songs for the Christmas program with students from her first year vocal class.

The Art Classes paint the backdrops for the Annual Variety Show and the "Cotton Queen" takes on a realistic pose as the last few touches are added.

History students in Miss Kiersteads' American History class arranged material on the bulletin board as they prepare for a unit of work on the South.

The Fine Arts Department consisting of three courses in Art, two in vocal training, and three in band expanded that department to meet the demand for more music and art experience.

Civics, World History, American History, Government, and International Relations gave the students a well rounded background in social studies.

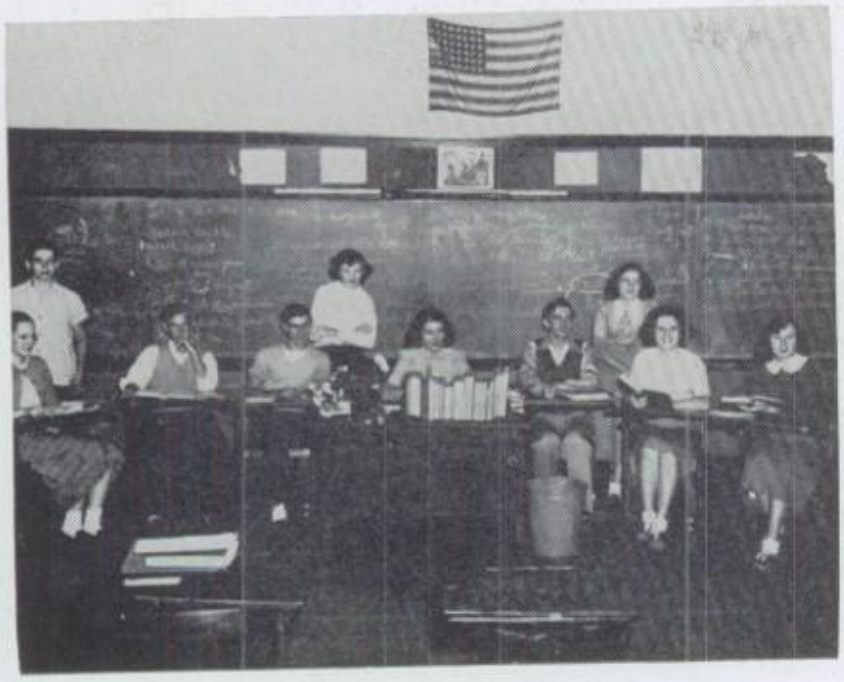
About foreign languages, homemaking and library science



French translations were the order for the day for Miss Rhodes' French Class.

Home Economics Classes stress units in food and clothing. Miss Sanderlin's classes work sewing projects while Mrs. Sawyer's group gets a lesson in table etiquette.

Mrs. Allen helps a student locate information in the library for a special project.

Latin, Spanish, and French head the foreign languages bill at Norview.

Home Economic students can learn home making in detail by taking advantage of the three home economics courses.

The library grew physically this year and several hundred books were added to it's shelves. The elementary section under the direction of Miss York had it's own division while the high school division under the direction of Mrs. Allen grew in room space, material, and circulation. Students found the library a pleasant place in which to work.

Seniors

A smiling girl displays her senior ring to an underclassman. Three Seniors discuss the qualities of their classmates for the Hall of Fame. A group of boys brag about the stars on their Varsity ball team. A boy wearing "draped trousers" explains how underclassmen can be eligible for upper classmen's organizations. John and Mary plan for the prom while Bud and June are already thinking about the Senior Party. Harry and Doris giggle about their lines in the Senior play. Five students study together for exams. A group of white robed girls pose for a graduation snapshop while the boys in navy gowns stand by, waiting to offer to exchange tassels "just for fun." A long line of serious faces wait and listen to their classmates' speeches and then walk up for their "sheep skin."

A confusion of congratulations ends this reel life at Norview.

The Senior Class presented "X" Marks the Spot" March 17-18, in the Norview Auditorium. It was directed by T. T. Turner, written by George Van Edger and presented by special arrangement with Samuel French. From a beard-lady to scenes in a wax museum this production is a different, exciting, mystery-comedy. Suspense with a capital "S" is the theme until the curtain goes down on the last act.

Carolyn Weaver was the Assistant Director and Alvin Davidson and William Ayers were Stage Managers. The cast included:

SENIOR HISTORY

We've been rodents or Freshmen, know-it-alls or Sophomores, children or Juniors, and the Person, a Senior. We can remember Moe Bauer as the hero of our Freshman year and Murray Callan as our Sophomore hero. Our first printed "Co-Pilot" appeared when we were Sophomores and our band really began getting organized complete with uniforms. In our Junior year we waited anxiously for the new vocational building to be opened. A new addition to our campus, the stadium, had already been proudly presented. A landmark down the road of high school life was the entering of the school into Group One. We remember Jimmy and Red Ore, Johnny Sheehan, and the other veterans and the post graduates who remembered Norview and returned. The Sophomore year will also be remembered for the first Annual Variety Show and for the organization of the swing band by a group of music fans. We laughed at the "barber-shop" quartette when they made a satire of their songs, and really applauded them when they gave out with the harmony in assemblies. We remember our nervousness when we applied for our first job during vacation. Pleading for a new dress or the use of the car and deciding on our dates were big problems in our Senior year. Every year we noticed changes in our school and the many alumni could always be depended upon to say, "Gosh! I hardly recognized our old Alma Mater!" We don't have to be reminded of those exams and report cards do we? And will we remember the big things in the year: The Senior Party, The Carefully Collected Autographs? You, can bet your Senior Ring we will!

We remembered that Mr. Chittum, who was a "freshman" with us in our first year at "hi," handed us our diplomas. He "graduated" too, after 4 years with us into the position of Superintendent of Norfolk County Schools. We were sorry he was leaving Norview, but we were glad he planned to stay in "our" county for a while.

Here comes the supporting cast

JUNIORS

As a "reel" movie could not be produced successfully without the supporting cast, neither could a school run successful without the equivalent. In their Junior year, the class seemed to be always busy planning extra curricular activities. During this year, the members were eligible for membership in clubs and classes. Plans had to be made for next year's courses, such as subjects to take for college entrance and vocations and many of us were old enough to take Retail Training and work after school. Some of us were old enough to take driver training, too, and the boys that earned their license proudly escorted their best girls to the Prom in Dad's car. Not since the Juniors first entered high school did they realize such a change.

And last but not least, they passed their final exams, and waited for the Senior rings.

SOPHOMORES

We see a small group, a class that we spoke of as "The Orphans" and we hear someone say; "I thought we would have no sophomore class this year because of the 12-year system going into effect, but we're awfully glad we did have one." Although small, we see the many achievements of this class. We look into a classroom filled with intent faces. We see organization meetings where our "Sophs" take a big part. We see the same group again, looking forward to their Junior year and being proud of their Sophomore accomplishments.

Last, Freshmen, "X-tras" we could not do without

"Once a rat, always a rat" was not spoken of a freshman. We see a large number of our "kids" adjusting themselves to an entirely different environment. Fresh from grammar school, they look with awe upon the school, the upper classmen, the teachers, the ball teams and sometimes are a little confused with the varied schedules.

This is the time of dreaming, the hardened Seniors say, dreaming of their future in Norview High School. When our "Freshies" ask the "oldtimers", we are sure to say "If you stay and do the best, it will always be remembered as one of the most important things of the most important times of your life."

We agree!

ACTIVITIES

From singing in the Glee Club assembly to displaying posters by the Retail Training club, from publishing the Co-Pilot to representing the school on the athletic field; all were part of the extra-curricular activity at NHS. Among the faculty we found willing and capable sponsors who were responsible for many club successes. If this production were old-fashioned, we could thank the wonderful students who demonstrated the Norview school spirit. Our administration gave us much school time for activities because they realized the value of them. The school clerk kept our records and funds straight and our officers and leaders worked hard to better our organizations. Clubs won permission to sponsor campaigns, contests, plays, publications and booklets, dances, compertitive sports, gifts to the school and other projects which were all successful. School would have been dull without many activities because they were all a real part of high school life.

We are young artists planning posters for the Hi-Y clean-up campaign. Down the hall the staff is pasting the "dummy" for the PILOT while next door the the reporters are checking their "beats."

In the auditorium an assembly is being rehearsed. Outside the doors, a group is putting up a bulletin board and inside the library another group is arranging a book display.

A committee meets to plan for a dance, and two teenagers are running around the campus selling tickets.

After school a group is trying to beautify their rooms.

As the camera shoots the scenes of the busy highschoolers we see that almost every Norviewite had a part in some extra-curricular activity.

Posters in the halls, stressing clean speech, clean sportsmanship, clean living, and clean scholarship, were absorbed by the students. The Hi-Y members have not only sponsored the clean-up campaign, but also collected three hundred and eighty cans of food for the needy at Christmas, and became affiliated with the National Hi-Y.

The donation of the trophy case by the Tri-Y will long be remembered by the students of Norview High School. Their standards to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and the community high standards of Christian character was well carried out by each member. During the year they have also sponsored an under-privileged girl, assisted in the Red Cross work of the school, improved and beautified the girls' rest rooms and formed a new chapter to carry on the work of the club.

These girls were part of the National "Y."

"Sing and be Happy" would be a good motto for Glee clubbers.

PILOT

How would you like to plan, write, assemble, type, finance, etc. a book? We did. At least we tried, and believe us, it was quite a job. We, most of us beginners, learned many things during the time we published the PILOT. From odd jobs, like interviewing for information and helping down at the engraving office to pasting up the dummy and pages, it was all an experience we won't forget soon.

Here are the main events of '48-'49 told with

Scene.....Balcony of a local movie
Time.....Saturday Afternoon
Characters...Two teenagers talking about the last school year

"Pancake"...Wasn't it a scorcher that day we registered? I remembered Nick wore a T-Shirt and all the girls wore cotten dresses.

"Berries"....I could hardly recognize Nick he grew so much. So-o-o manly. A lots of kids grew, didn't they?

"Pancake"...You're so right. But, golly, you had to be big to soak in all that new schedule and rule stuff.

"Berries"....But I was so confused with so many newnesses that I didn't realize that school had begun until I saw our girl friends with curlers in their hair and boys with gum behind their ears.

"Pancake"...The first part of school means football to me. Remember how we decorated "Daddy's" car with blue and white crepe paper? And the band sounded just perfect.

"Berries"....Sure, and I also remember how "Butch" bragged when he made first string. I don't blame him though. Speaking of boys I never had any trouble getting a date because I had a season ticket to the games.

"Pancake"...The Variety Show was the thing. I'll never forget Jay Childress as the rich Maharajah. And I laughed at Dickie Crisp and Johnnie Sheehan 'til I thought I'd split. Marie Bradsher won a big applause beating out with "Mississippi Mud."

"Berries"....Oh, sweet memories. The next big event in school was the Halloween Party. Even the boys wore disguises and Lowell Clark even won the first prize for the craziest costume. 'cause he dressed up like a girl.

"Pancake"...He got a big laugh all right and LaDelle Turner, the girl from the Arabia Harem, deserved the prize for the prettiest costume. I sure am glad the P. T. A. sponsored it.

"Berries"....The Co-Pilot staff and the Distributive Education classes sponsored the vote for President of the United States didn't they? I remember our own Garber and Hoffman won nine votes. We learned a lot and had a lot of fun too.

"Pancake"...Then along came November 8, and all kinds of drives began with annual subscriptions heading the list in popularity.

"Berries"....Yes, there were quite a few worthy drives, but I hardly remember the results because the next thing I remember I was so busy I was going in circles. Voting for the Hall of Fame,

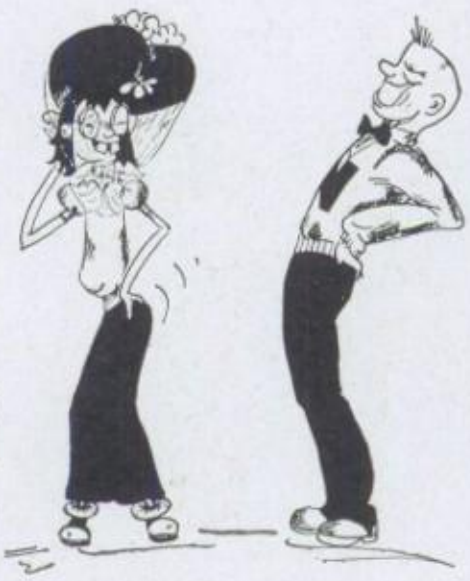
The aid of Nellie and Nick Norview football games, the Sadie Hawkins Dance after the Alexandria game.

"Pancake"...Whew! How could anyone forget that? But I also remember the pause in the whirlwind. Thanksgiving and parties visiting buddies., and gobbling turkey at ninety cents a pound.

"Berries"....Somewhere around that time I remembered I was a senior and had my picture taken for the annual and for the family record.

"Pancake"...Remember when Nellie told Nick that it cost $2.00 a sitting for the picture, he asked her how much it was if you stood.

"Berries"....Golly yeh, but Nick is so cute he doesn't have to be smart and Nellie's picture, belonged in Rogue's Gallery.



"Pancake"...Ha Ha, I agree. I guess Nellie scared people into buying magazines for our Magazine Campaign.

"Berries"....That campaign was work but fun, just like the basketball boys feel about their team.

"Pancake"...Oh, yes, wasn't it fun crowding into the gym, seeing our friends and getting hoarse from yelling?

"Berries"....You know it. Then along came exams, and lots of assembly programs. Remember the living picture program put on by the S. C. A.? Spring came along suddenly in February. Remember the big time we had at the Valentine Dance and how cute Nancy and Tad looked as King and Queen.

"Pancake"...Everyone said that it was one of our best dances, thanks to the Beta Club.

"Berries"....February sure was a busy month, all right. I remember how nice the auditorium looked with new stage curtains and how nice it was to get the new piano for the Music Room and the Tri-Y Trophy Case for the Hall.

"Pancake"...Everyone was really amazed at how fast the year was going by, especially the seniors.

"Berries"....We were proud of our ten band members in the State Band and our Band's beautiful Spring Concert.

"Pancake"...Zoom, May was here already, and we welcomed it by having a May Court complete with a Queen.

"Berries"....We revived that tradition didn'tt we?

"Pancake"...Speaking of traditions the big one came with the Prom. Jeepers what a time.

"Berries"....Before we knew it the school had ended like a bang with things like the Senior's, "X Marks The Spot", the Senior Party and (Groan) X-AMS.

"Pancake"...That kind of sums up the whole year and you know, I'm kind of sorry. How about you?

CAMPAIGNS FOR CAREERS

One of the big activities of our school year is the annual Career Day held in the spring after vocational interests tests had been given, and vocational choices had been investigated in English classes.

On April 12, the 1949 Career Day, guest speakers were invited to address seventeen interests groups chosen by the school wide student poll. These groups covered a wide area including teaching, Army, Navy, retailing, journalism, family relations, radio, mechanics, telephone operators, and medicine.

Katie Cumbo, president of the Student Cooperative Association, presided over the opening assembly, introducing in turn E. W. Chittum Principal and W. A. Early, Suprintendent of Norfolk County Schools. The Reverand P. Rowland Wagner addressed the group on the topic "What Life Requires."

The camera shifts as the sports reel begins

ATHLETICS

In a typical Norviewites' scrapbook of "reviews" of the "sports reel" athletic souvenirs are sure to have a prominent place. A used season ticket, football programs, a blue and white ribbon, a newspaper article, a picture of the stars—these will represent the school spirit of Norview athletics.

We remember many "Pilots" being repaired while their fans doctored sore throats from cheering. We remember the packed gym as fans anticipated a good game with their rival. We remember the blue and white decorated cars, the honking of horns and cheering Norviewites after the game. We remember members of the team walking onto the stage to receive a handshake, a letter and then an applause from the audience that meant "The game was played well."

. . . And here come the blue an' white boys . . .

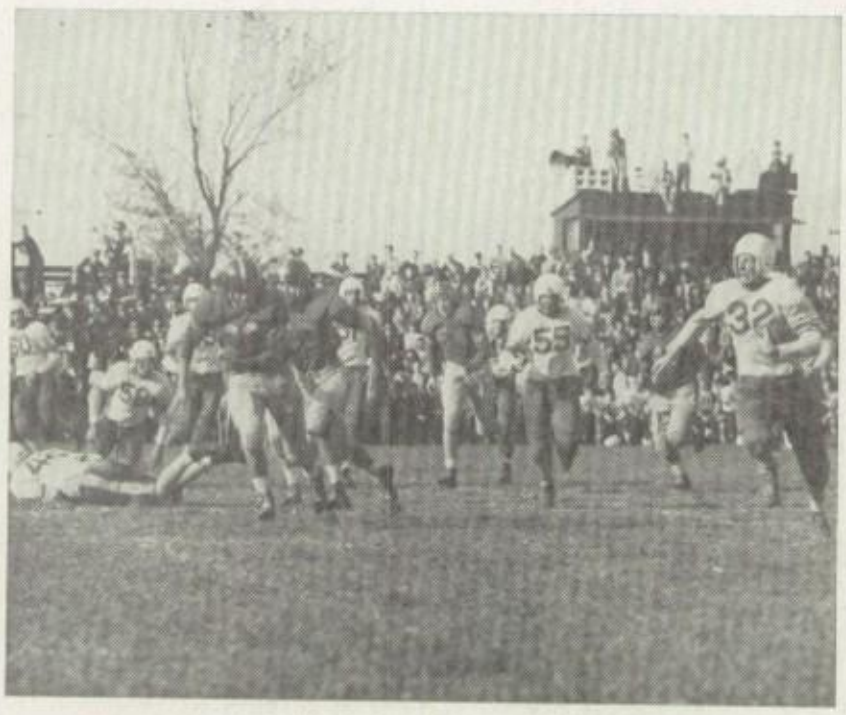
DATE: SEPTEMBER 17 HOME OCEANA

A large opening game crowd saw Tad Dixon take the kickoff to the 45 yard line, from where Robert Callis busted off-tackle and Norview drew fiirst blood in a 26-0 victory. Bill Carter's arm proved a good mainstay as he hit Dixon twice and Richard Strong once to boast a large score.

DATE: SEPTEMBER 25 THERE WILSON

Happy at their victory, the "Pilots" journeyed to Wilson only to bear the sting of defeat as the "Presidents" scored three T. D.'s. in the first half to win 18-0. Primer, Johnston, and McLean each scored in the first half when the hard-fighting "Pilots" brought them to a standstill, but were unable to score.

Louis Kilgore, guard, Honorable Mention, All-City, made the middle of the line a rough spot for enemy runners!



A red streak—and the ball lay on Granbys' 15 yd. line.

Norview boasted of a mighty line with four of its line men making the All-City Team. Charles Eldrige, tackle, Honorable Mention, All-City, was a mainstay in the front wall and when he was there, opposing players rarely stayed.

DATE: OCTOBER 1 THERE SUFFOLK

Four minutes before the whistle, "Buddy" Skinner of the Suffolk "Red Raiders" charged through and blocked a punt, grabbed it up, and raced 20 yards for a T. D. cheating Norview of their only victory over Suffolk. Tad Dixon scored two touchdowns; one on a pass from Carter and another on a 47 yard romp. These gave the Norview loyals hope when the "Pilots" took the lead 12-6 as time ran out.

DATE: OCTOBER 8 HOME WARWICK

The fluke game of the year was with the Warwick "Farmers" when in the first half Walter "Beaver" Yeates took the pigskin over twice to put us ahead 13-7. During the second half of the ball game Chauncey, Vaughan, and Robbins carried the ball through the "Pilots" line for long gains chalking up three T. D.'s to win a 26-13 victory.

DATE: OCTOBER 15 THERE ARLINGTON

Our "Pilots" were defeated again at Arlington 28-0 after a hard-fought game in which the Blue and White moved all the way to the "Generals" 3 yard marker, but were unable to push over a tally.

. . . The crowd goes wild as a touch down is made . . .

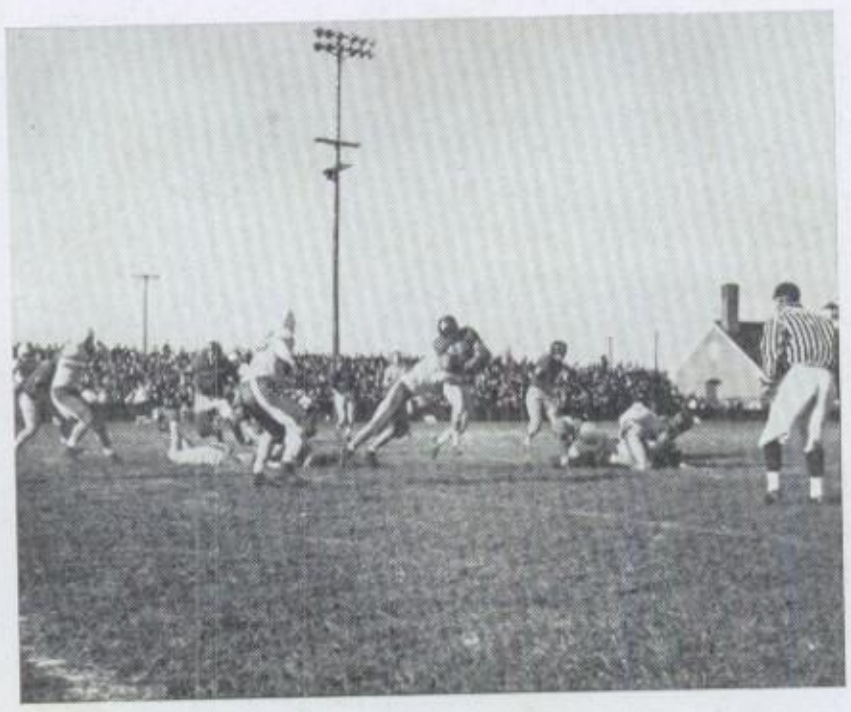
DATE: OCTOBER 23 HOME GRANBY

A highly touted Blue Comet Team left Granby in a good mood and in high spirits only to lose to the "breather" of a tough schedule. This was, perhaps, the most exciting game of the season as Tad Dixon cracked over from the 4 yard stripe to put the "Pilots" ahead with the winning margin in a 6-0 victory. Raymond Horton was outstanding in this game as he picked up three first downs in three tries. Truly the date, October 23, 1948, will live in Norview hearts forever and to keep from ever forgetting "The" football is enshrined in the Norview Trophy Case.

DATE: OCTOBER 29 THERE NEWPORT NEWS

Ray Boyle's arm proved disaster for our Blue and White as he set up three T. D.'s with his aerials. Halfback Bob Hamilton used two and Billy Gayle one, to ring up 19 points for Newport News. One of Boyle's passes went astray and End Tom Wood intercepted it for a touchdown. The final count stood at Newport News 19—Norview 6.

Louis Corbett, All City Honorable Mention and center for the Pilots, made the secondary a messy place for opposing players unfortunate enough to break the line!



Modest in victory—stalwart in defeat—they were boys who played the game.

Bob Callis, half-back, started the season off with a bang by breaking through the Oceana defense to score the first touchdown of 1948 on a long run (47 yards) to pay dirt.

DATE: NOVEMBER 5 THERE CRADOCK

Our "Pilots" racked up two touchdowns in defeating Cradock's Admirals as Bill Smith converted both for a 14-0 score. Ray Horton plunged over tackle and ran for 20 yards in making the first T. D. and quarterback Billy Carter tossed to end Tom Wood for the second, both of which came in the first quarter.

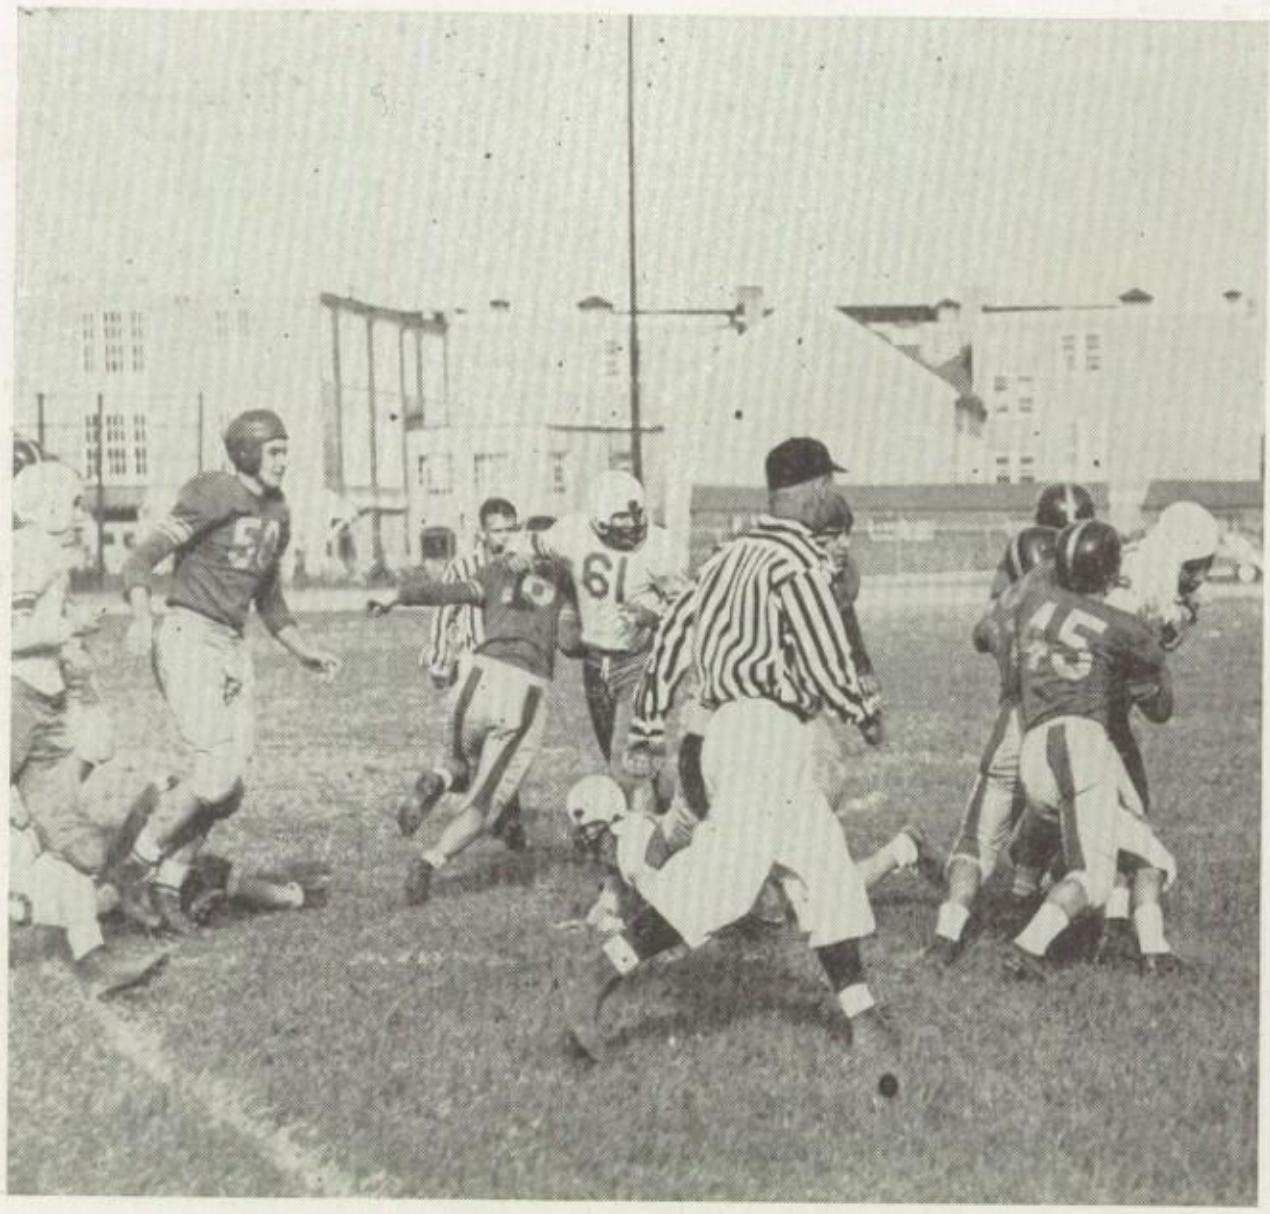
DATE: NOVEMBER 12 HOME ALEXANDRIA

Alexandria ran wild here in defeating a fighting Blue and White team 32-7. All the enemies' scores came off long runs, but a hard fought 60 yard march got one T. D. as Ray Horton cracked over.

DATE: NOVEMBER 19 HOME SOUTH NORFOLK

The last game of the season found a fighting Blue and White team slipping and sliding in a mucky, muddy gridiron losing much to the surprise of football fans 13-0 to the "Tiger Team" of South Norfolk. Cary Farmer racked up two T. D.'s on fumbles for the "Tigers." Red Wade cut loose on a 65 yard romp to pay dirt, but the officials deemed it no! He stepped outside on the South Norfolk 45 yard stripe.

There it goes over the goal . . . yipee!



The ball was snapped—a shuffle of hands—Tad Dixon going over!—its a touchdown!—and we had beaten Granby 6-0.

JAYVEE FOOTBALL TEAM

Fred Benham proved a mainstay on Norview's Baby Pilots in racking up the first win of the season on a quarter-back sneak against Cradock after the J. V. took a shellacing at the hands of Maury, Wilson, and Norfolk Academy. The Cullenmen lost the Cradock game, but the T. D. was a spark. In the Northampton game another Benham quarterback sneak proved the margin of victory. The Churchland game, Ruell Davis, Fullback, scored the only touchdown for the J. V.'s. in a tie game 6-6. But the Baby Pilots had found the way to pay dirt and Ruel Davis, Benham's arm, and some good catches by Don Filley, Jack Fulford; some line plays by Doug Clark, Thomas Cosgrove and Crawley Butler on defense gave the Pilots an overwhelming victory against Cradock 31-6. The J. V.'s. of Granby were battled to a 6-6 deadlock also, but the Norview Juniors ended with a win over the Atlantic City Bulldogs 7-6.

"I guess you'd call it intuition!"

"Whatever it was that made me decide on a telephone job was right!

"Even when I was learning, I earned a good salary. And frequent, regular raises in pay have come as I've gained experience.

"The surroundings here in the Telephone Building are safe and pleasant, too. The office where I work is bright and clean. There's a comfortable lounge where we can read or rest or chat when we're off duty.

"On top of all that, the work is important and interesting. And the people I meet and work with are—well, 'my kind of people.' Congenial, friendly and always ready to lend a helping hand.

"You can take it from me and my intuition—the Telephone Company is a good place to work!"

That's All Folks!

This is the end of our production. This is the last page of our year-book, the 1949 PILOT: It is not the end of the fond recollections that follow us page by page as we open and close it's covers. It has been fun spending these hours with you and now it's time to say so long until you take the PILOT out of the bookcase and re-enter with us the doors of Norview High School.

We, the staff, wish to thank those who have helped make our PILOT an anniversary edition to remember:

Mr. Jim Taylor, our group photographer, for tramping over miles of steps with us to get just the "right" spot for our picture.

Mr. Ed. Swain, of Southern Engraving, for his wise councel, and his personal interest and pride in the PILOT.

Mr Lacy King of McClure Printing Company for the headaches he received pondering over the PILOT "dummy" and for his sincere good will and help.

Mr. John Sykes and the print shop boys for printing our advertising blanks.

Miss Jessie Beamon for her advice and hard work with the Art Staff.

Mrs. Sue Chittum for keeping our phone calls straight and being our "general information and loan center."

Mr. Edwin Chittum, our principal, for his faith in us and in our PILOT.

And finally OUR STAFF, the real producer of the '49 PILOT.

Your Editor
